Response to Election

Applicant's election with traverse of the Group I invention in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the inventions are so closely related that maintaining them in the same application would not cause undue hardship for the Examiner. This is not found persuasive because searching two different and distinct inventions surely places a serious burden on the Examiner.

Applicant's election without traverse of species A as illustrated in figures 1-3 in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged. Applicant is correct in stating there are generic claims.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claims 25-37 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention, the requirement having been traversed in Paper No. 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --
(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 8-12, 17 and 21-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b) as being anticipated by Asano. See figures 1-3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3753

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103 which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Subject matter developed by another person, which qualifies as prior art only under subsection (f) or (g) of section 102 of this title, shall not preclude patentability under this section where the subject matter and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person.

Claims 1-7, 10-20 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Pestiaux in view of Shoop. The patent of Pestiaux, in figures 1-4 and 7, discloses all the claimed features of the invention with the exception of manifolds, the tube being flat and the fins being corrugated. In view of the recitations "refrigeration" and "radiateurs" in Pestiaux, Official Notice is taken that in order for a heat exchanger tube to exchanger heat/operate as intended in these types of systems, manifolds are used. See at least figure 1 in Guyton.

The patent of Shoop, in figures 1-3, discloses that it is known to have corrugated fins on a flat tube for the purpose of manufacturing a heat exchanger in a very simple and inexpensive method and maximizing the heat exchanger area. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ in Pestiaux corrugated fins on a flat tube for the purpose of manufacturing a heat exchanger in a very simple and inexpensive method and maximizing the heat exchanger area as disclosed in Shoop.

Art Unit: 3753

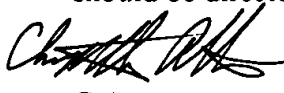

Claims 8-9 and 21-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Pestiaux in view of Shoop as applied to claims 1-7, 10-20 and 23-24 above, and further in view of Paulman et al. The patent of Pestiaux as modified, discloses all the claimed features of the invention with the exception of a plurality of passageways.

The patent of Paulman et al., in figures 1-6, discloses that it is known to have a plurality of passageways in a flat tube for the purpose of obtaining a multiport tube which has a large internal heat exchanging surface area and is structurally strong. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ in Pestiaux as modified, a plurality of passageways in a flat tube for the purpose of obtaining a multiport tube which has a large internal heat exchanging surface area and is structurally strong as disclosed in Paulman et al.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
